Grand Junction Parks and Recreation Names Rocky Mountain Health Plans Outstanding Partner of the Season

(GRAND JUNCTION, Colo.) – Rocky Mountain Health Plans has been recognized by Grand Junction Parks and Recreation as the department’s Outstanding Partner of the Season. The award honors Rocky Mountain’s longstanding sponsorship of the Western Colorado Senior Games, an annual Olympics style competition for people age 50 and older.

“Our partnership with Rocky Mountain helps us keep our costs down so more seniors can participate in the games,” said Lorie Gregor of Grand Junction Parks and Recreation. “We wanted to recognize Rocky for their important contributions to the health of our community.”

More than 100 contestants come from Western Colorado, Utah and Wyoming to participate in the Senior Games each year. Events include track and field, a 5K run, swimming, bowling and more.

“We are so pleased to see this event grow into something the entire Grand Junction community can be proud of,” said Karen Swiat, director of Medicare sales for Rocky Mountain Health Plans.
